“A FEW LITTLE FELLOWS
CAN RUIN THE HARMONY”

Governor Johnson Elected to United States Senate

BY THE LARGEST vote any candidate for United States Senator ever received in Colorado, Governor Ed Johnson, Colorado Alpha, was swept into the office of United States Senator in the recent election.

Truly American is the rise of Senator-elect Johnson. From "Sod house to Senate" is the appropriate caption of the Denver Post's story of Governor Johnson's land slide victory. The story is quoted in full text:

"It is a long trail from sodbuster to United States senator, but that is the distance which Ed C. Johnson has encompassed in a remarkably short time, and in so doing has created a new Colorado political myth.

"For in that brilliant rise from the obscurity of a western Colorado homesteader to the greatest parliamentary body in the world, Ed Johnson has never once been defeated and as an outgrowth of this his so-called luck has become proverbial.

"Son of a Swedish immigrant, Ed Johnson—his full name is Edwin, but he prefers the plain Ed—was born on a little farm near Scandia, Kansas, on January 1, 1884.

"He went with his father to the more attractive Nebraska farm lands. There he finally succeeded in getting a high school education, working his way as a section hand.

Family Starts to Homestead

"He turned to railroading and became a telegrapher. Then tuberculosis struck him and he came, as many another, to Colorado for his health.

"For a time he lived in a tenthouse in Colorado Springs. Well enough to resume his key pounding, he worked for a time as telegrapher on the old Colorado Midland railroad at Arkansas Junction.

"Then, because he was close to the soil and because the outdoor life promised secure health, he, with his wife and his father, decided to homestead in Routt County.

"That was in 1910. The family traveled 100 miles overland from Rifle, Colorado, to the homestead on Lay Creek in the vicinity of Craig. They lived first in a tent, then a dugout, and then a homesteader's shack.

"Having subjugated the raw land, Johnson later decided to move to Craig to become manager of a coöperative flour mill there.

Plays Lone Hand In Politics

"Shortly afterward his political career began. He was elected to the house of representatives in 1922. The following term he was floor leader of the house, and a successful one as he got the reputation of having beaten a top-heavy Republican majority with only a handful of votes.

"Since then his star has been in the ascendancy.

"He completed four terms in the senate. He then served a term as lieutenant governor, when he also was secretary to former Gov. William H. Adams.

"He served two terms as governor and now has been elevated to the senate with probably the largest majority that any man ever received for that office in this state.

"Despite his record of unvarying success, he has been faced with bitter opposition most of the way, usually from within his own party. This latter fact is due to his habit of affiliating himself with no organization and playing a lone hand in politics."

In the Senate, Senator Johnson will find Sig Ep company in the person of Harry Flood Byrd, Virginia Alpha, Junior Senator from Virginia.

FLASH . . . Lindsley Elected

LINDSLEY

Colorado District Judge

DENVER CITIZENS elected Henry S. Lindsley to the position of District Judge in the recent election as the September JOURNAL prophesied that they would. (p. 26)

Thus to Colorado Alpha's one-time chapter president comes the distinction of being the youngest man ever to be chosen to the position of District Judge in Denver.

In a panel of seven Judges elected, Judge Lindsley received the fourth highest vote.

Floyd Odlum—Doctor of Sick Businesses

Bought up 22 sick investment trusts to enlarge Atlas Corporation which has helped save more than a score of enterprises, most of which were so shaky the bankers were afraid to loan them another dollar.

LEFT: Mr. Odlum on board ship, returning from England where he sold $25,000,000 worth of public security holdings.

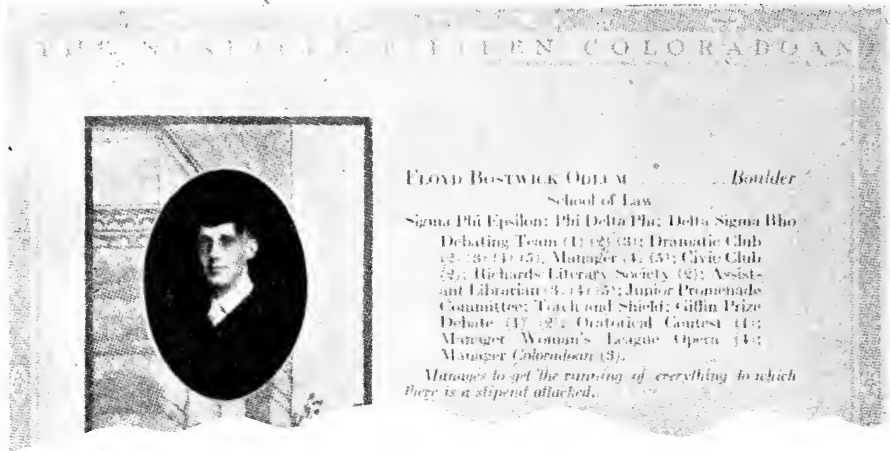

IN 1915 a wiry, restless young man, son of a small-town clergyman, received his sheepskin from the University of Colorado. As a student he had attracted no special attention, though he had mastered with ease the intricate principles of law. It was in another direction that he gained distinction. He had an exceptionally keen eye for a profit. Whether it was berry picking, gardening, spraying trees or riding an ostrich in a race with a horse, he made a profit—not as a wage-earner but as a trader, trading his services not for a daily wage but on the basis of so much for the completed job. Wages did not interest him.

He did well at it; so well that when the class book of 1915 appeared, Floyd Bostwick Odlum was described in it as the one member of the class who “manages to get his hands on everything that makes money.” The inference was, of course, that Odlum was a young man with a Midas touch, one of luck’s chosen few.

Today, the same young man is best known as Odlum of Atlas, one of the most discussed figures in finance. Pretty much the same thing said of him in the class book of 1915 may be said of him now, with one significant addition—he not only has managed to make money out of everything he’s touched, he is also one of the few who made a great deal of money during the depression. He is known today as “Depression’s Number One Phenomenon” and the “Miracle Man of Finance.”

Probably no figure in modern finance has been more widely discussed. At mention of his name, bankers swallow their

HAD HIS NUMBER

Back in 1915, when Odlum graduated from the University of Colorado, his classmates apparently had his number—for they wrote, "Manages to get the running of everything to which there is a stipend attached."

Adam's apples and glare as though his name signified a menace or a deep mystery. Stockholders who profited by his operations regard him much in the same light as his Colorado classmates saw him, a financial genius capable of turning even a great depression to profitable account, while business men who watched him stabilize shaky companies wonder if he is a twentieth century Moses come to lead them out of an economic wilderness.

In spite of this wide divergence of opinion, the fact remains that Odlum of Atlas accomplished remarkable tasks during and because of the depression. The investment trust issue is a highly controversial subject, particularly at this time when the new Federal Securities and Exchange Commission is preparing to investigate investment trusts. Whatever may be the outcome of this inquiry, the business interests of America still wonder by what means Odlum of Atlas Corporation built his once insignificant investment-management trust into the largest and most powerful institution of its kind, with assets of $110,000,000, working almost exclusively with slump-stricken enterprises foundering upon rocks heaved up by the depression.

Seeking enlightenment on this score, and on the future of investment trusts, the writer submitted to Mr. Odlum a series of questions, and these, with his answers, will be found below.

Six questions submitted to Mr. Odlum by the editors are answered here. Much of the mystery which has surrounded his methods will be cleared by his brief, but extraordinarily frank and concise, answers which outline his policies

Q: Mr. Odlum, what were the indications of the depression which made you anticipate it?

MR. ODLUM: Indications of the coming market crash and depression in the fall of 1929 were very numerous and it goes back too far for me to state now all such indications. However, I may mention a few, such as huge brokers' loans, high money rates, very low yields of securities as compared with their market prices, and falling exports. Among some of the other symptoms that might be mentioned are decline in building, over-saturation of the automobile market, etc. One did not have to be a prophet to be aware of the speculative hysteria in 1929 when prices were going up as though there were no limit to them.

Q: Mr. Odlum, what do you consider a special situation?

MR. ODLUM: I am a believer in special situations, because to take something bad or not too good, find its trouble and meet the need, appeals to me as doing something constructive; also it gives a scope for work and ingenuity; also the result is more under one's control than the course of the market in marketable securities. With a large amount of capital to keep working, one can very seldom, if ever, make profits in periods of falling prices if invested in marketable securities, whereas it is possible to invest in special situations and improve their status, even in bad times. Also my experience, ability and aptitude run more to the study and workout of particular problems than to the comparative study of the list of marketable securities.

Q: Mr. Odlum, why do you not like situations which involve control?

MR. ODLUM: We do not mind control for a short formative period, but dislike it for permanent operations because responsibility for management, when numerous companies in various industries are involved, is too complex for any one management to handle. Ours is primarily a financial organization. Too many things cannot be done well by one organization. When one takes a responsibility for the operation of a company one cannot move away from it when foresight decrees one should, and capital thus becomes permanently frozen. Capital frozen in one situation cannot be made to work over and over again in the same sort of task and, therefore, profits are limited because the major part of the profit comes from placing a company on a sound basis rather than from subsequent operations which produce fair continuing profits on capital invested. The trend of public opinion is against concentration of control and we try to keep in harmony with the times.

Q: Mr. Odlum, what were the factors employed in putting American Trust of San Francisco back on its feet and why did you not seek to control it?

MR. ODLUM: We did not put American Trust back on its feet. It was never off its feet. While it had losses, yet throughout the depression it remained liquid and sound. We did not control or attempt to control the bank management. Local directors and officers must be given all credit for operations and results. We sold control, because (1) we did not believe it sound to have a San Francisco bank owned, as it was, by an eastern company; (2) we did not think we wanted to keep such a large permanent investment in one company; (3) the people of San Francisco wanted to have an interest in the leading San Francisco bank, and we thought it good for the bank and community for it to have local shareholders.

THE BRAVEST of us all is no more."

In these words, 20 years ago, the commanding officer of the Lafayette Escadrille announced to the famous air squadron that Kiffin Yates Rockwell one of the founders of the unit, had been killed in action in the World War.

On the twentieth anniversary of the death of the first American to enter the World War, the first Southerner to die in action, a band of "citizens" gathered here yesterday (September 23) to honor the memory of Kiffin Yates Rockwell, who had paid, in his own words, his "debt to Lafayette and Rochambeau."

Occasion of the gathering in the Hall of the House of Representatives was the unveiling of a portrait of the dead hero, presented to the Hall of History by members of the Rockwell family of Asheville. In a brief, simple ceremony, featured by an address by Willis Smith (N.C. Gamma), Raleigh attorney and a college fraternity brother of the aviator, generally regarded as North Carolina's most decorated war hero, the portrait, a copy of one by John Elliott, was unveiled by Kiffin Yates Rockwell II, nephew and namesake of the soldier, as Paul A. Rockwell (Virginia Epsilon), the soldier's brother, presented the portrait.

Many State officials were among those present for the exercises, at which Archibald Henderson, University of North Carolina professor, served as master of ceremonies.

The program was opened with a prayer by the Rev. Dr. E. McNeill Poteat, after which Paul A. Rockwell presented the portrait.

"We are happy to give this portrait to the Hall of History," Captain Rockwell said. "During the twenty years that have passed since my brother's death fighting for what he believed to be right and just, our ways of living and thinking have changed more than they did between 1776 and 1914.

"The youth of today are confronted by problems far more grave than those that faced the boys of my brother's generation. May they be inspired by Kiffin's portrait, just as he was inspired and encouraged by the portraits that hung in the Hall of History in his day."

After the portrait was accepted by Dr. C. C. Crittenden, Secretary of the State Historical Commission, for the Hall of History, Miss Nell Battle Lewis read three of the many poems written in tribute to Kiffin Rockwell, by Edgar Lee Masters, Paul Scott Mowrer, and Vincent Starrett. Then followed brief tributes to Rockwell by nine representatives of patriotic societies.

Tributes were paid by Mrs. Marshall Delancey Haywood, Vice-chairman, Wake County Committee of Colonial Dames; Miss Mary Porter, Regent, Caswell Nash Chapter Daughters of the American Revolution; Henry M. London, President, North Carolina Society Sons of the American Revolution; Miss Mary Hilliard Hinton, State Regent and Honorary Vice-president General, National Society Daughters of the Revolution; Dr. Charles Lee Smith, President, North Carolina Society Sons of the Revolution; Ernest M. Green, Vice-President, North Carolina Society of the Cincinnati; Mrs. John H. Anderson, Past Historian General, United Daughters of the Confederacy; Mrs. John E. Ray, Second Vice-President, State Chapter American War Mothers; Cale K. Burgess, First Commander, North Carolina Department American Legion.

In the principal address of the occasion, Willis Smith reviewed the "brief but glorious" career of Kiffin Rockwell, born at Newport, Tennessee, September 20, 1892, the son of the late James Chester Rockwell, a well-remembered North Carolina poet and writer and Loula (Ayres) Rockwell. Kiffin Rockwell was born a soldier. A direct descendant of William Rockwell, of Fitzhead, England, who came to America in 1630, his ancestors fought in most of the Colonial wars mentioned in American history. Seven Rockwells were officers in the War of the American Revolution. Kiffin's two grandfathers were Confederate officers, Henry C. Rockwell a Captain in the 51st North Carolina Regiment, and Enoch Shaw Ayres in the 8th South Carolina Volunteers, C.S.A. He played "war" as a child with his brother and other boys, in the foothills of the Great Smoky Mountains in East Tennessee, and on his grandfather Ayres' plantation in South Carolina, where he spent much of his boyhood.

Kiffin Rockwell attended first the Virginia Military Institute, then Washington and Lee University, where he became a member of Virginia Epsilon chapter, Sigma Phi Epsilon. His fraternity membership was precious to him all his life. He received an appointment to Annapolis, but resigned it after a few months of preparatory study, feeling that the United States Navy might never see action.

On the morning of August 3, 1914, the day that Germany declared war on France, Kiffin Rockwell wrote the French Consul-General in New Orleans, asking how to go about joining the French Army. "If my services can be used by your country, I will bring my brother, who also desires to fight for France."

The two brothers sailed for France August 7, 1914, on the American Line vessel St. Paul. They joined the French Foreign Legion immediately upon their arrival in Paris, and were both wounded some time later. Kiffin was shot through the thigh by a machine gun bullet during a bayonet charge at Vimy Ridge, May 9, 1915. His wound incapacitated him for marching, so he asked to transfer to the French Air Service, then beginning to accept American voland Revisited September 1930 to*

Virginia Alpha

TO EACH of the undergraduate chapters, the Grand Chapter has presented a copy of the illuminated Fraternity Criteria, faithfully reproduced in color and appropriately framed.

The Fraternity Criteria, here reproduced, were adopted by the Interfraternity Conference of which Sigma Phi Epsilon is a founding member, and endorsed for Sigma Phi Epsilon by the Grand Chapter.

NEBRASKA ALPHA HOUSE—AND CHAMPS

The Singing Champs Celebrate a SILVER ANNIVERSARY

FOR THE THIRD consecutive year Nebraska Alpha won the Interfraternity Sing at the University of Nebraska and is now in permanent possession of the silver trophy. This fine accomplishment took place just two weeks before the annual alumni banquet which, in 1936, celebrated the silver anniversary of the founding of Nebraska Alpha Chapter.

The annual Interfraternity and Intersorority Sings at Nebraska have been a feature of the Ivy Day program for a number of years. Sigma Phi Epsilon had never taken part until the spring of 1933. Ralph Spencer, president that year, aroused chapter interest in the event. Dr. R. E. Sturdevant, of the College of Dentistry, a director of a Lincoln church choir, and a close friend of several members consented to coach the group. Each fraternity must sing two of its fraternity songs and must be directed by a student member. For years the Betas, D.U.'s, and Sig Alphas had won the Sing with monotonous regularity. The first two groups were directed by a member of the University of Nebraska music faculty and a director of the famous Cathedral Choir of Lincoln.

Under Dr. Sturdevant's inspiration and leadership Nebraska Alpha started rehearsing for the 1933 Sing. There were several scoffers in the chapter who belittled the idea of a bunch of he-men singing in public. However, the balance of the group ignored them and practiced diligently for weeks.

By
C. H. Freeark
Illinois Alpha

DR. R. E. STURDEVANT
Director of Nebraska Alpha Glee Club

Then, lo! and behold, the scoffers suddenly realized they were missing something really fine. The singing members seemed to enjoy their work and the songs began to sound like real music. The skeptics swallowed their pride and joined the rest in working for the public appearance.

Ivy Day in 1933 dawned rather cold, but the spirit of the group was warm. I attended the scene with the housemother. After hearing the first three groups, I remarked to her, "Whoever wins this sing is going to have to be good." Sigma Phi Epsilon did not win that year. Their performance was creditable but it was hardly of championship calibre. But there was no feeling of disappointment and despair after it was over. In fact there was a spirit of "We will show them next year." Perhaps the finest result of the experience was the development of a singing chapter. Frequently at dinner the group would burst into song spontaneously. The beneficial effects on the group spirit were ample compensation for the time and effort expended in practice.

But Dr. Sturdevant had put all of his money on one horse and he was out to win.

He is a student of men and singing as well as of dentistry. He realized the competition was keen and that if his group was to win, it would be necessary to eliminate the voices that were not naturally good, and to secure a song that would permit of fine musical effects. None of the fraternity songs met this requirement. Mrs. Sturdevant, who assisted at the piano during rehearsals, started a search for a song and her efforts were crowned with success. Special words were written and the new song was put in rehearsal in the spring of 1934.

Dr. Sturdevant's control over the group was remarkable. He was firm and demanded regular attendance at rehearsals. He put the boys through their paces. He brought his male choir along even as a football coach develops a team. One member who had a splendid voice felt he was so good and the chapter needed his voice so much that he missed the final rehearsal to have a date with his girl. Dr. Sturdevant refused to let him take part in the sing. It nearly broke the boy's heart but it killed off any such notions in anyone's mind for all time to come. On Ivy Day in 1934 three groups were called back a second time to sing for the excellence of the singing made the judges' decision difficult. Sigma Phi Epsilon received the decision and even the competitors did not grumble. The new song had turned the trick together with excellent coaching and diligent practice. The Sing in 1935 was a repetition of 1934 and for the second consecutive time Nebraska Alpha carried off the honors. With two legs on the permanent trophy the chapter settled down in 1936 to keep the cup or die in the attempt. Dr. Sturdevant's son, Clinton, directed the chapter to its third consecutive victory and permanent possession of the trophy.

Dr. and Mrs. Sturdevant and their children were invited as special guests to Sunday dinner two weeks later and were presented with a beautiful painting as an expression of the appreciation and high esteem in which the chapter held this splendid family. Dr. Sturdevant had been initiated as an honorary member after the Sing in 1933.

At the annual alumni banquet celebrating the 25th anniversary of Nebraska Alpha at the Cornhusker Hotel on the night of May 23, 1936, the Singing Champs sang their songs for the alumni. The banquet was "a natural." The spirit of camaraderie and good fellowship that was generated from the beginning of the assembly of the alumni assured the success of the event. Circular tables were set around the banquet room each one accommodating about eight alumni. This arrangement permitted the assembly of small congenial groups bringing together those who were old classmates or intimate friends. The stiff formality of the usual long tables with a row of men on each side was absent. Hardly had the banqueteers taken their seats before they broke spontaneously into song.

As the first formal number on the program the Singing Champs were called upon to show the alumni how they won the silver mug. Even an encore did not satisfy the alumni, but with food waiting they had to be content. When the inner-man had been well catered to, the formal program got under way. Bob DeVoe acted as toastmaster. He introduced the several speakers with dignity but without solemnity. His presence set the pattern for the evening. All speeches were above the usual ribald stories and frivolity of such occasions, yet they were interesting and entertaining.

John Bishop, the chapter president, reviewed the activities for the year and outlined the summer rush campaign. C. H. Freeark gave a brief sketch of the national fraternity history. Richard Koupal reminisced the early history of Nebraska Alpha. His talk was informal and full of human interest. He drew his material from old photographs, menus, programs and other memorabilia that he had gathered in his undergraduate days. Some professional entertainers varied the program.

To many of the older alumni the high spot of the evening was reached when Stanley Marsh, an alumnus and an accomplished pianist, was called upon to entertain the group as he used to do years ago in the chapter house. Stanley leans toward the classical in his musical expression but the numbers he played that evening enchanted the crowd. He exhibited rare genius in stopping with the crowd enthusiastically calling for more. Two undergraduates, the Jimmies Fitch and Simonin, closed the entertainment with songs. The boys were good, and everyone was happy.

JOHN BISHOP

T. B. Strain, Grand Guard, who has long been the "daddy," as Bob DeVoe expressed it, of Nebraska Alpha, closed the program with a serious discussion of the business phase of the chapter.

The members drifted to an adjoining room where the galloping dominoes, two pair, full house, and royal flush helped to prolong the reunion into the small hours of the morning. The silver anniversary will go down in history of Nebraska Alpha as the most enjoyable gathering of Cornhusker Sig Eps. The affair was slated for success from the opening moment when the crowd spontaneously burst into song and moved from event to event with ever increasing enthusiasm. Perhaps the outstanding features were the contributions by the Singing Champs, Stanley Marsh, an alumnus, and the Two Jimmies, undergraduates. The chapter, past and present, entertained itself.

FOUNDERS' DAY SUGGESTION

CHARLES PATCH
Colorado Alpha

HERE IS A Founders' Day thought—Why not add to our celebration of Founders' Day the exchange, on that day, of the greetings which come ordinarily at Christmas time? The fraternal greetings might take the form of standardized cards or, better still, personal letters, from one brother to another.

I am trying it out this year by sending Founders' Day greeting letters to a selected number of Sig Eps of whom you are one.

What do you think?

CHARLES R. PATCH, Colorado Alpha
District Governor, Eighth District

* * *

[From a long fraternity experience the Editor of the JOURNAL can recall no single idea which entails greater appeal to the fraternal emotions of members of the fraternity. He adopts Governor Patch's suggestion with real enthusiasm and recommends its adoption to all Sig Eps, whether as groups or individuals.—ED.]

Founders' Day Marked by

ON November 1 Sigma Phi Epsilon paused to do honor to the men who gave her being thirty-five years ago.

In every section of the country, in undergraduate and alumni groups, Jenkins, Gaw, Carter, Wallace, Wright, and Phillips were honored in celebrations having wide variety in form. But whatever their form they were activated by the single desire to pay tribute to, to give thanks for the Founding Fathers whose boyhood ideal has become Sigma Phi Epsilon.

Incomplete accounts of the Founders' Day celebrations follow:

Alabama Alpha

The chapter marked Founders' Day by attending the First Presbyterian Church in a body.

In accordance with an old custom the chapter's Founders' Day celebration proper will be held in conjunction with Alabama Poly's Homecoming which falls this year on November 21. At the Founders' Day Banquet, which will cap the climax of a week-end of entertainment planned for the alumni, one of the special features will be the dedication of a silver loving cup to Alumni Secretary Otis E. Ward as a tribute of gratitude for his work for and loyalty to Alabama Alpha. The cup, which will remain in the chapter, will have engraved upon it each year the name of the pledge whose achievement has been most noteworthy.

Alabama Beta

Buffet supper, followed by a house dance on November 3.

California Alpha

Founders' Day weekend activities began with a football game, followed by a buffet supper and open house on the afternoon and evening of October 31.

On Sunday, November 1, the chapter conducted a formal initiation; the initiation being followed by a Founders' Day Banquet.

California Beta

On the morning of November 1, the chapter attended church services in a body. The afternoon was given over to formal initiation ceremonies, after which actives and alumni honored the Founders at the annual Founders' Day Banquet. In the evening the chapter and guests enjoyed a theatre party.

Colorado Gamma

Founders' Day celebration began on Friday, October 30 with a dance attended by actives and alumni. On Saturday occurred the customary football game between actives and pledges. And on Sunday, November 1, came the Founders' Day Banquet. The banquet was brought to a fitting climax by a musical program in which the songs of the fraternity played a large part.

District of Columbia Alpha

The chapter inaugurated Founders' Day festivities with a formal house dance on Saturday night, October 31. On Sunday afternoon formal initiation of three men was conducted. After the initiation a buffet supper was enjoyed. Some thirty-five men attended these celebrations.—H. C. WRIGHT, Historian

Florida Alpha

Florida Alpha celebrated Founders' Day with a banquet at which Brother T. W. McCaul, one of the first twenty members of Sigma Phi Epsilon, was the principal speaker. Since Saturday, October 31 was also Homecoming for the University of Florida, a good many of the alumni of the chapter were present. On Sunday morning the chapter attended Brother McCaul's church in a body.

Indiana Alpha

Open house Sunday afternoon, November 1.

Indiana Beta

On Saturday afternoon the chapter held open house from five to six, and in the evening there was a dinner for alumni and active wives and sweethearts.

On Sunday, November 1, the actives and alumni attended church in a body and this was followed by the annual Founders' Day Banquet.

Kansas Alpha

Returning alumni enjoyed the Homecoming football game and dance on Friday. On Saturday evening

Kentucky Alpha

Combining Founders' Day and Homecoming into one big celebration, Kentucky Alpha had the pleasure of having as its guest, "Uncle Billy" Phillips and initiating Lieutenant-Colonel Bruce E. Brewer, commanding officer of the University of Kentucky military staff. Following the initiation, held at the chapter house in the afternoon, a banquet was held at the Wellington Arms Apartments. T. T. Jones, dean of men of the University, was guest speaker. B. C. Stapleton presided at the gathering.

Dean Jones congratulated the local chapter on its good financial standing. He stressed the point that only by having a good, level-headed comptroller could the standing be kept up in future years. He urged the active chapter to be careful in their selections.

Uncle Billy announced that the 1937 Conclave would be held in Cleveland on September 2, 3, 4. He wishes that there could be one hundred per cent attendance. He suggested that the local chapter establish a library and for a start all members of the alumni present a book to begin such a project. Uncle Billy also believed that a chapter student loan fund should be created and that a certain amount each month, no matter how small, should be set aside for the time when a deserving member might need it to finish his education. As a suggestion, he thought that it would be appropriate to name the fund in honor of the late John Catron Jones, first initiate of the local chapter, Sigma Beta Xi, into Sigma Phi Epsilon. Jones was a strong advocate of assisting students to finish school.

...and How Does Your Chapter Library Grow?

As THE second year of the Chapter Library Movement begins, it would seem wise to review achievements to date, to lay plans for even greater achievement during the remainder of the year before us.

The past year was one of beginnings, but none the less a period in which definite progress was made in a commendable number of chapters.

There are still some chapters, however, who have failed to make a beginning of a chapter library. There are others who have made slight progress as the result of a seeming lack of understanding of methods of procedure. For the benefit of these two groups the following suggestions are offered:

Chapter Librarian

The very first step to be taken is the selection of a Chapter Librarian. This officer may be chosen by chapter election, by presidential appointment, or by such other means as the chapter may prefer. Three prerequisites are of prime importance for the holder of this office: a love for and understanding of books, a zeal for the chapter library project, and time to devote both to the building and care of the chapter's collection.

Once chosen, the Chapter Librarian's first task is to make a careful name and author list of such books as are at present in the chapter collection, this list to be submitted to Doctor Franklin C. Sewell, 660 Bush St., San Francisco, Calif. From a study of the list Librarian Sewell will be able to make two contributions—recommendation that such books be discarded as are without permanent value; recommendation of additions to be made to the existing collection.

In the meantime the Chapter Librarian should secure from the Central Office a sufficient number of official Sigma Phi Epsilon Book Plates to serve present needs and needs of the immediate future; these book plates to be pasted inside the front cover of every volume deemed worthy of a place on a Sig Ep Library shelf.

Methods of Securing Books

Put on a campaign for books. Keep everlastingly at it.

Begin by calling on every member of the chapter to contribute at least one book of interest and value.

Inaugurate the tradition of having each pledge contribute a book—Some of the chapters have found "Book Dinners" to be both pleasant and profitable. At the conclusion of an especially fine dinner have each pledge or each member, or both, present a book, giving a two or three minute review as part of the presentation.

Call on your alumni. In personal letters or through your chapter publication call on your alumni to contribute a book or the subscription to a magazine.

As each man graduates, let it be the custom that he leave behind some book from which he has found enjoyment and help.

Show your collection to your guests. They may be encouraged to contribute a book if they are properly impressed with your interest in and use of your collection.

Collect a monthly fee of ten or fifteen cents to be used by the Librarian in the purchase of an occasional book.

Include a book item in the chapter budget. It may have to be small this year, but put it in however small. You may be able to make it larger next time.

Housing Your Books

The housing and shelving of your book collection is a matter of prime importance. Wherever possible a special room should be set aside as a Library or Reading Room; a comfortable room with good lighting easy chairs and books within convenient reach. Where it is impossible that a separate room be set aside, your book collection may find place in the chapter room, the reception hall, or even the living room. In any case it is important that your books be in open shelves, either three quarters or ceiling height. If you undertake to build new or additional shelves, make them ten inches wide.

Arrangement and Classification

It is unwise to undertake a too elaborate method of record keeping. Any system is quite sufficient which makes possible identification of the book and the following of its circulation. A catalogue card should be made by listing the author and title of each book and these cards may be kept in a small box alphabetically arranged to show the contents of the Library.

There are a number of classification systems, among the best known of which are the Expansive, the Library of Congress, and the Decimal system. Tau Kappa Epsilon, which pioneered in the chapter library field, has adopted the Expansive system as being most practical for amateur Librarians. They classify their books under the following headings:

LET US pity those poor rich men who live barrenly in great bookless houses. Let us congratulate the poor that, in our day, books are so cheap that a man may every year add a hundred volumes to his library for the price of what his tobacco and beer would cost him—A little library, growing larger every year, is an honorable part of a young man's history. It is a man's duty to have books. A LIBRARY IS NOT A LUXURY, BUT ONE OF THE NECESSITIES OF LIFE—H. W. BEECHER.

The Executive Committee Visits Virginia Alpha

FOR THE COMMITTEE SEE—

Personal Impressions of the October Meeting of the Executive Committee

THE TRAVELING of some 8500 miles was necessary to bring Sigma Phi Epsilon's Executive Committee together for its October 19, 20, 21 meeting, and every member was present in Richmond to contribute to that total—Koontz from Kansas City, Francis from Wilmington, Corley from Berkeley, Buchanan from Milwaukee, Strain from Lincoln, Hunt from Detroit, Qualls from Nashville. Phillips and Berry reside in Richmond, of course, and because the committee was so gracious as to invite the Editor of the JOURNAL to listen in, we add our mileage to and from Chapel Hill to push the total to just over 8500 miles.

It was an interesting, if grilling, meeting. As I looked around the long table at which the committee sat a number of things flashed through my mind, the same thoughts having recurred since that time. For example: How can the need for the existence of fraternities be doubted when a group of men of such consequence as those represented here give their time and effort to the betterment of just one fraternity? Or how much of a fee would Lawyer Koontz or Lawyer Hunt charge a client for the same amount of energy and effort being expended here for his fraternity? Or would the economists call it "economic waste" when bankers Buchanan and Strain, used to dealing in great sums of money, concern themselves here with the comparatively petty sums involved in the expenditures authorized by the committee? And so for each member of the committee. But there really wasn't too much time for rumination. Grand President Bill Francis disclosed an unsuspected phase of his personality by literally driving his compatriots through an agenda which was both longer and more involved than usual. Plead as the weary brethren might to "take time out" or to "wait until tomorrow" Grand President Bill drove always forward and transacted the business of the chair with an executive dispatch which probably provides one of the explanations of why he is the successful engineer that he is.

By F. James Barnes, II, Editor of the Journal

I have said that the meeting was a great one. In justification of that statement I venture to advance the following committee actions, selected from a mass of detail too long and too involved to find proper place here, as being illustrative:

District Governors

Acting in the Denver Conclave Resolution, and in the light of the experience gathered from the experiment of the past year in which Charles R. Patch, Adelbert Diefendorf, and X. R. Gill acted as experimental District Governors in Colorado, Pennsylvania, and Texas, the Executive Committee authorized the adoption of a complete and extensive District Governor plan for the entire fraternity.

The working out of the details of the plan, the determination of the geographical areas of the districts, the naming of District Governors, will be under the direction of the Grand Secretary and a sub-committee of three of the Executive Committee.

The active direction of the District Governors, the coordination of their efforts, the following up of their recommendations, and the like, will be carried on by Mark D. Wilkins who will discontinue chapter visitation and return to the Central Office in this new capacity and with the new title of First Assistant to the Grand Secretary.

Alumni Organization and Coordination

The Executive Committee looked upon our loosely and incompletely organized alumni and determined to improve the situation. The result: There was authorized a systematic organization of new alumni groups and, where necessary, the reorganization of existing alumni groups, this process to continue until there is no town or city in which there are as many as fifteen resident Sig Eps in which there is not an active alumni group, whether chapter or association. More than that, these chapters and associations, once organized, are to be provided with direction and coordination from the Central Office. And this will also be under the direction of First Assistant to the Grand Secretary Wilkins who, in addition to directing the District Governors will perform the functions carried out in some organizations by an officer with the title of Alumni Secretary.

Directory

The Budget Committee, a sub-committee of the Executive Committee, was authorized to include a budget appropriation of from $1000 to $1500 to be added to the already existing Directory Reserve. It was the committee's hope and expectation that with the passing of another year and with this addition the Directory Reserve Fund will have grown sufficiently to justify the issuing of a new and enlarged Directory.

Manual

The committee gave instruction that the present proposed manual be revised and rewritten, the revised and rewritten version to be published and circulated as expeditiously as possible.

Conclave

After considering some ten or a dozen Conclave invitations, the committee finally decided to accept the invitation of the Cleveland, Ohio, alumni. The dates of September 2, 3, 4, 1937 were settled upon.

Elections to Grand Chapter Committees

A. C. Wahl, Des Moines, Iowa, was re-elected chairman of the Board of Trustees of the Endowment Fund.

Joseph R. Curl, Wheeling, W.Va., was re-elected to the Board of Trustees of the Endowment Fund.

William A. Hanley, Indianapolis, Ind., was re-elected to the Board of Trustees of the National Headquarters Corporation.

National Headquarters Inspection—Chapter Visits

The full committee made a detailed inspection of the National Headquarters Building, and paid brief visits to Virginia Alpha and Virginia Zeta.

To be sure this is not all of the business that was transacted. I have selected for comment only those things which struck me as having uncommon interest.

One thing ran like a continuing thread through all the committee deliberations, whatever their nature. It was intangible, it was never voiced, but it was none the less real. If I interpreted the sentiment of the committee aright there was running through their minds as they worked some such sentiment as this: Sigma Phi Epsilon has been peculiarly and gratifyingly fortunate. She has come through the trying depression with all of her chapters intact save one, and with that vacant place refilled by a new chapter. There has, of course, been sharp depreciation in some of the properties on which there are chapter house loans, but all other funds of the fraternity have not only been brought through intact, but have actually returned some slight revenue. This remarkable record has not just happened. It has been achieved as a result of the expenditure of great effort. This effort can now be transferred to healing the scars left in a comparatively small number of chapters by the hard, lean years, and to the building of a new and even richer fraternity of the future. For the attainment of both of these ends provision has been made for the District Governor Plan, for Alumni Organization and Coordination, and for a revised Pledge Manual as new projects. The ever present necessity of scholastic improvement can be attacked with greater zeal. Such contributions to the cultural heritage of our chapters as Chapter Libraries can be brought nearer to completion. The service provided by the Student Loan Fund and the Employment Service can be expanded. The course is definitely FORWARD.

Yes, it was a great meeting.

Floyd Odlum

Q: Mr. Odlum, you have been credited with taking over barge lines, estates, furniture factories, vacant lots, amusement parks, department stores and specialty shops and rebuilding them into going concerns. This would indicate some basic reasoning which applies to the reorganizing of diverse industries. What is that basic reasoning, if any?

MR. ODLUM: Most of the things you mention were taken over, not by choice, but because they were in the portfolios of investment companies we did take over. There is no basic reasoning that I know of except that most companies that are in difficulties are there either because of lack of working capital, inability to refund term debt when it matures, or mistakes of management. These can be corrected sometimes by an organization like ours that can take a substantial temporary financial interest and help support the old, or find new management when necessary.

Q: Mr. Odlum, when did you first conceive your idea of an investment trust?

MR. ODLUM: I never conceived the idea of an investment trust. Investment trusts date way back beyond the current century in England and I have been familiar with their methods and operations for many years. Atlas is not exactly an investment trust. It is more like the British finance companies. Atlas is the result of a contribution to one management (and incorporated for convenience) of many small units of capital, contributed by many thousands of stockholders throughout the country who believed our central organization could do more for them in making profits than they could do for themselves. We are not limited as to type or amount of investments and have no predisposition in favor of any particular securities or branches of industry.

Q: Mr. Odlum, what is the future of the investment trust (your type of investment trust), and how will it affect, advantageously, American business?

MR. ODLUM: The investment trust has a great future, in my opinion; (1) to serve small investors who have not adequate information or facilities to invest for themselves, and (2) to deal in large units with companies needing capital, thus getting opportunities for investments (on behalf of all small stockholders) not available to small stockholders themselves. Thus, American business will be helped because industry and business will have a source for getting in-

YOU CANNOT TALK to Thomas H. Neal, or "Tommy" Neal as he is affectionately known to a host of friends and acquaintances the country over, very long until you discover that he has a love and a deep appreciation for humanity and an unusually loyal spirit toward his friends and any type of organization or business with which he is associated.

In a conversation with him he will let you know that he is a native of Tennessee and points with pride to the fact that his father was a Methodist minister and that he is the youngest of a large family of ten children.

He arrived in Kansas on New Year's Day at the age of 14. He worked his way through high school and after graduating from high school entered Baker University, where he also entirely worked his way, completing the regular college course in 3½ years with one term in summer school.

Soon after entering Baker University in the fall of 1915 he was pledged to Sigma Phi Epsilon by the Kansas Alpha chapter and since that time his efforts to further the success of Sigma Phi Epsilon have never ceased. While an active member of Kansas Alpha chapter he was rush captain for three rush seasons and took a particularly active part in other chapter and school activities.

The first year after graduating from Baker University he became a member of the Alumni Board of Kansas Alpha chapter and has ever since been a member of such Board, serving in the capacity of President for two terms. During such time he has also held every office in the Kansas City Alumni chapter, serving as President several terms and continuously active in the affairs of said chapter. On two occasions he has been elected the Official Delegate of the Kansas City Alumni chapter to the Conclave and served as Chairman of the Nominating Committee at the Big Win Inn Conclave and as a member of various other Grand Chapter Committees.

Tommy Neal believes that when the Fraternity can promote the proper type of rushing program and improve that department of the Fraternity many problems of the active chapters will be solved. His sincerity in this belief, as well as his wholehearted loyalty to Sigma Phi Epsilon, is evidenced by the fact that he has returned to his home chapter, Kansas Alpha, and aided in rushing every rush week since he was graduated, except one when he was in France with the armed forces of this country. He travels extensively all over the country in connection with his business and has visited many chapters and taken an active part in helping them with their rush seasons and has been personally responsible for many boys entering chapters outside of his own chapter.

He is a Blue Lodge Mason, a 32nd Degree Scottish Rite Mason, York Rite Mason, and a member of the High 12 Club International, of which he has served as President and as delegate to the National Convention, serving at the present time as District Governor. He is also a World War Veteran, having enlisted in the spring of 1917 and served overseas and being now a member of the American Legion.

He is now associated with the Marshall Hughes Company, the same business firm by which he was employed while working his way through Baker University and is at the present time Vice-President, Sales Manager and member of the Board of Directors. His firm has become one of the leading book publishers and distributors in the United States. As sales manager he points with pride to the fact that the sun never sets on the equipment his company sells and the same untiring effort, loyalty and never say die spirit for which Tommy Neal is famous in his homeland and displayed throughout the years in his fraternity activities has contributed no small part to his business success.

Tommy Neal married Marie Latimer, an Alpha Chi Omega, and they have two sons, William Latimer Neal and Thomas Hoard Neal. The older boy entered High School this fall and he has long been looking forward to becoming a member of Sigma Phi Epsilon when he enters college, having been imbued from parental sources with the idea since early childhood that there is no fraternity quite as good as Sigma Phi Epsilon.

Tommy Neal is a member of one of the leading churches in Kansas City on whose Board of Trustees he has served as Chairman for the past two years.

No better example of unflagging perseverance and loyalty to the cause of Sigma Phi Epsilon and all that it stands for could be cited than the record of Tommy Neal throughout the years of his membership in the fraternity.—By EARL W. FROST, Kansas Beta.

SMITH

DON'T BE SURPRISED if you hear at the close of your favorite radio program,—
"This is the Columbia Broadcasting System,

RADIO ANNOUNCER
Arthur Smith, Wisconsin Alpha

—your announcer,—Arthur Smith.” And this young man could rightly add, “Wisconsin Alpha.” Broadcasting rules prohibit such so we’ll have to be content to put it in ourselves. For it was at Lawrence College, Appleton, Wis., that Smith became a member of Sigma Phi Epsilon and where his radio career was launched.

His present popularity is attested by this thumb-nail sketch aired by radio columnist, Lansing Benet. “Thumb-nail sketches, Number 1. Arthur J. Smith—a man who has been much neglected in all publicity, and who deserves more than he would get if he got all of it. I don’t think I ever met a more genuine, clean-cut, capable person than Arthur John Smith, son of a Wisconsin insurance agent. Born in Wisconsin, spending enough time in Florida when a child to remember it longingly when the chill winds blow, he came to Iowa for the first time when he came to KRNT. Six feet from the ground, he is perhaps a bit on the heavy side—ten or fifteen pounds more than he should be for his age. This is probably because he insists on drinking milk at meals instead of coffee, dislikes anything intoxicating very much, and can’t get interested in smoking. And he definitely isn’t a tin god—he’s the kind of a man Mrs. A. B. would like her sons to grow up to be. Very blond, wavy hair, a flair for clothes, a perfect set of sparkling white teeth—and he definitely isn’t a collar ad. You can’t describe him—he’s one of those people you like and like and like, and don’t know why. He’s the kind of a chap who makes a thumb-nail sketch look silly—you can’t get him on a thumb-nail.”

Certainly a worthy tribute to Smith and giving reason for all Sig Eps to be proud. But let’s not get ahead of the story.

It was in Appleton, Wis., twenty-seven years ago, that “old Doc Stork,” left cause for much rejoicing. There is nothing on record to indicate that the neighbors were disturbed by various noises when the new arrival exercised his lusty lungs. Nor is there any record of the “new Smith youngster” having the kind of a voice which would enable him to attain his position.

Grade school problems, high school thrills, and college heartaches followed in order. It was in high school that Smith received his first bit of dramatic experience by taking part in school plays. At Lawrence College it was a different story. Trying out for admission to Sunset Club, college dramatic group, he was rejected, thus eliminating him from a chance to take part in any of the productions.

Fate is as strange as it is fickle for a change in the personnel of the college dramatic department cost the medical profession a potentially great doctor. His way barred in dramatics, Smith had decided to follow the field of medicine but with the change revised his major to drama and speech. He took part in practically all of the major productions of Sunset Club which had once turned him down. Ironically, he was never requested to try out for the various rôles which were assigned to him.

“With an eye to the future and an ear to the ground,” Smith soon learned that station WHBY was going to broadcast from Appleton. He did everything but set up a tent on the studio steps and finally was rewarded by an audition promise. In his own words, “Talk about shaky knees, I read some copy about automobiles but what it sounded like or meant is more than I can say. I was told that it was O.K. and that if they ever needed anyone they would ‘keep me in mind’.”

Not very encouraging but good fortune beckoned once again, ten days later, when he was summoned to take the place of an announcer who failed to show up. (The unpardonable sin in radio). That was the thirteenth of January, 1931. While he was accustoming himself to his new rôle, his weekly stipend was $0.00. Later he found five dollars in his pay envelope.

The broadcasting schedule was conveniently arranged enabling him to attend college until his graduation in 1931 and still keep up a regular series of programs at the station. While at WHBY, now radio station WTAQ of the newly-formed Insull chain, Smith, following the completion of his college course, did everything from the handling of special event programs, interviews, football games, to the run of orchestras, hillbilly programs, writing continuity, program director, and even once scrubbing the floor. Thus was laid solidly, the foundation for his future.

Swinging along arm in arm with fate, Smith obtained his present position. In his own words, "I answered a classified advertisement in a radio trade journal that asked for four announcers. I had written many letters and thought one more wouldn't hurt and would at least keep me in practice."

His application was accepted and he started work on the Columbia Broadcasting System station KRNT. He had applied March 1, 1935 and was at work March 17. This station is also a member of the Iowa Broadcasting System with sister stations WMT, studios in Waterloo and Cedar Rapids, and KSO, with studios in Des Moines. The latter two stations are members of the National Broadcasting Company. All three stations are owned by the Des Moines Register and Tribune.

Since being at his new task, Smith has missed only five minutes of a program and that because cold weather stopped the street cars. Once he just missed being late by thirty seconds. He's played various parts in skits impersonating everyone from Fred Astaire to Joe E. Brown. In addition to being a regular staff announcer of KRNT and the IBS which finds him on the 11:45 A.M. news period and several commercials that are network features, he has also had programs on the CBS and NBC chains such as dance orchestras, political speeches by such personages as former president Herbert Hoover, Milo Reno, farm leader, the rebellious Governor Talmadge of Georgia, the late Huey Long, and Governor Langer of North Dakota, and the CBS Church of the Air.

Two of Smith's most interesting experiences were with Huey Long and ex-president Hoover. The former, accompanied by his bodyguards, spoke from the Iowa State Fair Grounds. Most impressive aside from his vociferous oratory was the enthusiastic singing of his "Share the Wealth" song which the band played for him, rounding out a good show enjoyed by all of the spectators.

Mr. Hoover's episode was a bit different. In this case the former president had refused broadcast permission but at the last minute changed his mind. Smith had come to work without shaving and when he arrived was told to go out to Drake University and announce the details of the exercises. He did a "believe it or not" five-minute shave and change of clothes and then traveled out to the University where the address was broadcast.

While in college, Smith was also a member of Pi Epsilon Delta and National Collegiate Players. He has been a guest announcer at several Wisconsin stations and WGN, Chicago. He was married recently to Miss Loretta Wettengel of Appleton. His hobbies are photography, etchings, prints, and poetry.—AUSTIN STEGATH, Wisconsin Alpha.

ARMEL

WHEN THE American Legion acclaimed Harry W. Colmery national commander at its national convention in Cleveland, Ohio, September 24, Lyle O. Armel of Kansas Alpha beamed with the pride of a man who sees success crown his efforts.

Lyle was virtually campaign manager for Colmery, as executive secretary of the committee of six which steered the campaign. There was no titular campaign manager, but Lyle did the work.

Both are Topekans, and have been closely associated in Legion work for years. Lyle was membership chairman of Capitol post No. 1 in 1928 when Colmery was commander, and succeeded him as commander. He nominated Colmery that year for state commander and helped him get elected. He was Colmery's assistant that year, also, when the latter managed the campaign which placed Ralph T. O'Neal, also a Topekan (Delta Tau Delta from Baker where Lyle was initiated), in the national commander seat. For several years he has been chairman of the transportation committee of the Kansas department, which sees to it that the delegates reach national conventions safely and ready to do everything American Legion national convention delegates do.

Armell reached Cleveland four days before the convention opened, to set up Colmery-for-Commander headquarters in the Statler hotel, and had charge of headquarters from then on, handling press relations, tabulations, routing Colmery and others to various state caucuses, etc. The organization worked so smoothly that the day before the convention opened Colmery had two-thirds of the votes necessary to elect—pledged by caucus action, not merely promised—and as other states caucused his total piled up. When it came time to nominate Alabama yielded to Kansas, Kansas nominated Colmery, and states shouted their support so fast that he was declared elected by acclamation. The unanimous vote of the convention was cast for him—the first time that has ever happened in Legion history.

It was a coup even more spectacular than that by which their fellow Legionnaire and Topekan, John D. M. Hamilton, had engineered the nomination of Alf M. Landon at the Republican national convention three months before in the same auditorium.

Lyle attended Baker in 1914-15 and 1915-16. He won baseball letters both years and sang in the glee club. He finished his degree course in one year more, at the University of Kansas, after the war. There he managed the glee club, debated, and made Delta Sigma Rho, honorary forensic.

He also aroused interest of the local, Acomah, in S.P.E. It petitioned and became Kansas Gamma after he had been graduated.

When America entered the war in 1917 Lyle enlisted in the navy as a seaman. Selected for officer training, he was sent through the school at Pelham Bay, N.Y., and in July, 1918, commissioned ensign. As assistant navigator and communications officer of the transport Santa Rosalia he made several trips across the perilous pond.

He was luckily in Saint Nazaire, France, and with shore leave, the day the armistice was signed.

After hostilities ended he remained in the service six months, touring South American waters with a portion of the Atlantic fleet. He is still active in the Naval Reserve. Takes two weeks training as executive officer and navigator of sub chasers on the Great Lakes, each year, and holds the reserve commission of a lieutenant, senior grade.

After graduation he was circuit manager of the Dominion Chautauquas of Canada for two years and then came to Topeka as executive secretary of the city Y.M.C.A. He held that position 10 years, becoming one of the leaders in Topeka civic activities of every description.

In 1933 when relief became a governmental instead of a civic problem he was drafted from the citizens committee and the Y to become county relief administrator. He has continued in that position ever since, through all the changes of program. During the peak he administered the spending of more than $2,000,000 a year. As a detail of the job he originated and edited the Shawnee County Relief News Bulletin, which has been used and copied over the entire country. He is in constant demand as a speaker on relief subjects.

It was on December 28, 1920, that Geraldine Riley, Kappa Alpha Theta and Grinnell graduate, became his wife. They have three children, Patty Lou, 13, Lyle O. II, 5, and John Riley, 18 months.—By FRANCIS C. CLARK, Kansas Alpha.

EWING

AS ONE WHO has set his teeth in the cause of fraternalism, especially Sig Epism and refused to let go, I want to present Herschell Duke Ewing, better known to his fraternity brothers and associates as "Duke." He is a Sig Ep of achievement, not only because he is always working for Sig Ep Fraternity, but in his profession as a Claim Adjuster, he is second only to one, in the nation.

Now to the personal history of this brother. Duke entered Oklahoma Agriculture & Mechanical College, at Stillwater, Okla., in 1921, and was promptly pledged to Oklahoma Alpha. As an undergraduate he was very prominent in the chapter affairs, in many offices, especially that of Secretary-Treasurer. In addition he was a member of Scabbard and Blade, military fraternity. He graduated from A & M in 1924, with a B.S. degree in Business Administration. Two weeks before his graduation he joined the claims department of the Aetna Insurance Company, at Tulsa, Okla. He has been with this company ever since, having had 12 years of service. He has gained promotion after promotion until now, at the age of 33, he is the Manager of the Claim Department and Chief Claim Adjuster for the entire state of Oklahoma for his company—being the youngest such officer in the nation. But, by his age, don't get the idea he isn't good. The many attorneys with whom he comes in contact by virtue of his business, for some reason, usually "compromise" their claims, rather than "go-to-bat" with Duke. "Why, he can take one look at a damaged car and tell to a penny and a mill (Oklahoma has mills for tax tokens) what it will cost to repair it, and can smell a 'padded' claim a mile away." Some rep—we say. For such, he is ranked the second best in the nation, the one taking first place being somewhat older than Duke.

Since graduation, and in addition to his professional work, Duke has continuously served in some official capacity in the alumni board affairs of Oklahoma Alpha, being the present Secretary-Treasurer. He is also the present President, in his second term too, of the Oklahoma City Alumni chapter. He is a first Lieutenant in the U. S. Army Reserve.

He organized, and was the first president of, the Oklahoma City Chapter of the Claim Adjusters Association, and is the present Chairman of the Board of Directors of the Oklahoma City Index Bureau of the National Bureau of Casualty Surety Underwriters.

He took time out from his fraternalizing and adjusting in 1922 to marry Miss Marie Freeman.

unteers. Paul Rockwell was wounded in the shoulder so severely that he went back to French Army Grand Headquarters as official war correspondent. He remained in France, and during the 1925 war in Morocco against the Riff tribes he served as captain in the 37th French Aviation Regiment.

In April, 1916, Kiffin was one of the founders of the unit of American volunteer aviators, which later became the famous Lafayette Escadrille. In his first encounter with a German aeroplane, May 18, 1916, he shot down in flames the enemy machine, the first aerial victory ever won by an American aviator. A week later, flying over Verdun, where the greatest battle in history was raging, he was severely wounded in the face by a German explosive bullet, during an air duel in which he shot down his opponent. He refused to enter hospital for treatment, had his wound dressed, and continued to fly.

Marshal Joffre decorated Kiffin Rockwell with the Military Medal and the Croix de Guerre. He remained at Verdun throughout the summer of 1916, winning numerous victories, decorations, and promotions. During the month of July, 1916, his official record showed that he engaged in more air battles than any other pilot in the French aviation.

Early in September, the Lafayette Escadrille was ordered to Alsace, where aerial activity was intense. He was given a new Spad aeroplane, the fastest type seen over the front up to that time, mounted with two machine guns. Rockwell took his Spad over the lines to try it out early the morning on September 23, 1916.

Just inside the French lines, he sighted a huge German two-seater observation plane. He immediately dived to attack it, holding his fire until close up. A German bullet tore a great hole in his chest and his plane sped downward, falling in a field of flowers just within the French lines. The enemy artillery opened fire on it, but French artillerymen rushed from their shelters and dragged the aviator's broken body from the wreckage of his plane.

Kiffin Rockwell was buried at Luxeuil-les-Bains, where his Escadrille had its headquarters. He was given a funeral worthy of a general, officers and men of the Allied Armies marching behind the artillery caisson that bore his remains to their last resting place.

Sergeant James Rogers McConnell, Kiffin's comrade who also met a hero's death, March 19, 1917, wrote in "Flying for France," the following tribute to Kiffin Rockwell:

"The news of Rockwell's death was telephoned to the escadrille. The captain, lieutenant, and a couple of men jumped in a staff car and hastened to where he had fallen. On their return the American pilots were convened in a room of the hotel and the news was broken to them. With tears in his eyes the captain said: 'The best and bravest of us all is no more.'

"No greater blow could have befallen the escadrille. Kiffin was its soul. He was loved and looked up to not only by every man in our flying corps but by every one who knew him. Kiffin was imbued with the spirit of the cause for which he fought and gave his heart and soul to the performance of his duty. He said: 'I pay my part for Lafayette and Rochambeau,' and he gave the fullest measure. The old flame of chivalry burned brightly in this boy's fine and sensitive being. With his death France lost one of her most valuable pilots. When he was over the lines the Germans did not pass—and he was over them most of the time."

Kiffin Rockwell's name is revered in France as it is in America. The late Theodore Roosevelt referred to him as "a Lafayette of the air." Flying fields and aviation schools have been named for him; poems have been written to him; the Asheville, N.C., Post of the American Legion bears his name as does the Post of Veterans of Foreign Wars at Newport, Tennessee. His name is engraved on the walls of the Pantheon in Paris, the Lafayette Escadrille Memorial monument, and the monument to the American volunteers who died for France which stands in the Place des Etats-Unis, Paris. Over his grave at Luxeuil-les-Bains, the townspeople of the little city where he is buried have placed a handsome bronze memorial tablet. Another handsome bronze tablet to his memory was placed in the Robert E. Lee Memorial Chapel on the Washington and Lee University campus, by Virginia Epsilon chapter, Sigma Phi Epsilon. His "War Letters" were published in book form in 1925, by Doubleday, Page.

"This portrait today presented to the North Carolina Hall of History," Willis Smith said in conclusion, "portrays the physical characteristics of my friend and our hero, whose exploits meant not only glory for himself and his family, but also imperishable glory for the state from which he went, and for the noble mother and brother who survive."

"May Kiffin Rockwell's example of a heroic figure determined to do his duty in the struggle of right and justice be ever emulated by the youth of this state upon which his achievements reflect glory and renown."

Swygard Named Seattle "U" Community "Y" Secretary

THE APPOINTMENT of Kline Swygard, Washington Beta, '32, to the position of Executive Secretary of the Seattle University Community Y.M.C.A. was announced in the following story from the University District Herald for Friday, October 16, 1936:

Kline Swygard, University of Washington graduate and former basketball star, has been chosen executive secretary of the University Community Y.M.C.A., taking over his new duties this week. Swygard succeeds Charles G. Norman, veteran "Y" secretary who had charge of the local branch the last six years, and who now becomes field executive of the Seattle Y.M.C.A.

Mr. Swygard entered the Association's work following graduation from the U. of W. in 1932. He was in King County "Y" supervisory work for two years and later was associated with the University of Washington Y.M.C.A., working with entering freshmen. In his undergraduate days on the campus he was an active campus leader and a board member of the "Y."

A native of this state, Swygard came to the University in 1928 from Colfax, where he was born and reared. He became interested in attending here following a trip to Seattle as the representative from Southeast Washington in the finals of the State Oratorical Contest. While at the university he was a star basketball player under Coach "Hec" Edmundson. Swygard is a member of the University Lions Club and has been active in community affairs, enjoying a wide acquaintance among the young people of the district as well as on the campus. He is married and has two children.

Lieutenant-Colonel Brewer Initiated by Kentucky Alpha

KENTUCKY ALPHA welcomed its newest member, Lieutenant-Colonel Bruce E. Brewer into its midst, Friday, October 30, when formal initiation was held at the chapter house. The presence of "Uncle Billy" Phillips at the ceremony lent an added thrill to the occasion. Following the ritual a banquet celebrating Founders' Day and Homecoming was held at the Wellington Arms Apartments.

Lieutenant-Colonel Brewer has been commanding officer of the R.O.T.C. unit at the University of Kentucky for the past five years. He was born in Williamstown, Ky., December 22, 1884. After attending Williamstown high school, from which he never was graduated, Brewer, after taking a special examination, entered the University of Kentucky in 1902. He received his B.S. degree in Agriculture in 1908. Two years later, while working for the civil government in the Department of Agriculture in the Philippines, he entered the army as a second lieutenant of scouts.

Brewer has been stationed in Borneo, China, Japan, Philippines, and various sections of the United States. He is a graduate of the general staff school of Fort Leavenworth, Kan., and of the infantry school of Fort Benning, Ga. Before he was transferred to the University of Kentucky, Brewer was unit instructor for the O.R.C. of the 377 Infantry at Tulsa, Okla.

In June, 1914, he was married to Francis Katherine Shely at Lexington, Ky. They have three children, Francis Elizabeth, Marion Barbara, and Margaret Shirley.

Lieutenant-Colonel Brewer is a member of Omicron Delta Kappa, Scabbard and Blade, and of the Masons.—JAMES MILLER.

Carroll Johnson Honored by Iowa Gamma

ON SUNDAY, NOVEMBER 15, alumni and active members of Iowa Gamma gathered to honor one of the chapter's most illustrious young members, Carroll Johnson, respected and admired by all who have been privileged to know him. Upon this occasion Johnson was presented with an alternate pearl and diamond Sigma Phi Epsilon Badge as a token of affection which all hold for him, and appreciation for the fine contributions he has made to the upbuilding of his chapter.

CARROLL JOHNSON

Carroll Johnson was born in Clinton, Iowa, April 2, 1911. He attended the Clinton schools and then entered the State University of Iowa in 1930. In 1934 he received his A.B. degree, entered the College of Law and was graduated with the J.D. degree in June, 1936. All the time that he was in college he earned the major portion of his school expenses in addition to taking an exceptionally active part in the affairs of Iowa Gamma and the almost numberless organizations and extra-curricular activities with which he became associated.

While in college he was president of Gamma Eta Gamma, legal fraternity, vice-president of the junior law class, secretary-treasurer of the interfraternity council. He was a member of Pi Epsilon Pi, Union Board and the Y.M.C.A. cabinet, and has served on several party committees including Homecoming, Club Cabaret and Barrister's Hall. A member of the Supreme Court Day Committee, Johnson also numbers debate work along with his long list of campus activities.

Johnson's chief interest and activity was Iowa Gamma. He was vice-president in 1932-1933, comptroller in 1934-1935, president in 1933-1934, resident adviser during the 1935-1936 session while he was studying law. More significant than all these titles and offices was the unanimous recognition of Johnson as the most potent rusher Iowa Gamma ever had or may ever have. He was the rushing chairman, officially or unofficially, every year after his initiation that he was in college. It is literally true that he has personally pledged nearly every man who has come into Iowa Gamma during the past five years. This is a record that few can be said to equal.

Unlike many, Carroll did not forget his fraternity when he left academic halls. How is this for a beginning despite the fact that he has been out of school only a few months? He is president of the newly organized Clinton Alumni Association and is actively sponsoring the formation of alumni associations in other Iowa cities such as Cedar Rapids, Des Moines and Davenport. He is a member of the Iowa Gamma alumni board. Since becoming a member of the board about four months ago he has collected nearly $900.00 in old alumni accounts and notes receivable (that was the end of September report; it may be considerably more than that now) and says he has every reason to expect at least $500.00 more to come in within the near future. In the midst of all this activity he has found time to spend considerable time with the chapter, helping it with rushing and other problems, actively participating in rush week and making several subsequent week end visits.

Even before Carroll was graduated from the Law College he had decided to enter politics and all summer long he has been waging a hot campaign for the office of Clerk of the District Court. He won in the Republican primaries, and the fact that he faces a worthy opponent who is the popular and respected present incumbent, does not seem to discourage him in the least. He says that it's a great game and he loves it.

Carroll Johnson is a big, blond, fair complexioned fellow whose energy, enthusiasm and love for Sigma Phi Epsilon seem to be boundless. His sole hobby is his fraternity and his ambition is that he may someday be made a District Governor. When Carroll's brothers pin the jeweled badge of Sigma Phi Epsilon over his heart it is to be hoped that he, who has given so freely of his time and talent, understands that it comes from a grateful chapter and a grateful fraternity.

Macarthur Author of New Biblical Literature Text

A RECENT PUBLICATION of the D. Appleton-Century Company Inc. is Biblical Literature And Its Backgrounds, by Doctor John Robertson Macarthur, Kansas Beta.

Doctor Macarthur, who is a member of the faculty and Dean of the California Institute of Technology, and for a number of years a member of the Summer School faculty of the University of Colorado, describes this his most recent book as being "a Gathering together from Far and Near of Divers and Sundry Facts and Opinions which may Enable those Familiar with the Masterpiece of the English Language, the King James Bible, to read it more Understandingly and with a Greater Appreciation of its Literary Felicities and Perfections."

Three considerations serve as a background for the author's approach: "the value of the Biblical writings in themselves as literature, their fundamental character as one of the factors of occidental civilization, and the all-pervading influence of the King James' Version upon the English-speaking peoples should dispose the intelligent person to become familiar with the book."

Biblical Literature and Its Backgrounds appears in a format both convenient and attractive. It is replete with photographic illustrations. Each chapter is provided with supplementary quotations and passages which add to its value for the average student. In addition there is a useful appendix and an adequate index.

The ripe scholarship and the rare facility of expression which Doctor Macarthur has brought to his work make of Biblical Literature and Its Backgrounds both a notable contribution to American Literature and an invaluable aid to the students who would know more of that instrument of culture which is the Bible.

Two New Plays by Warren Beck

THE "The Yearbook of Short Plays," recently published by Row, Peterson, and Company, Evanston, Ill., contains two new plays by Warren Beck, Wisconsin Alpha.

The two Beck plays are Green Eyes in the Dark and Life Line, the last named being dedicated "To John Robson," Wisconsin Alpha.

Of Life Line the publishers have written:

This pleasant treatment of modern love shows Mr. Beck up to his old tricks—turning over the apple cart at the last minute. Maybe he didn't though. Maybe it was what you expected all along. If so, our apology. . . . The office cat bristles at the sight of "this pleasant treatment of modern love." Experimentally I scratched out "pleasant" and "modern." Salome purred. We wrote them in again when she wasn't looking. . . . You can't please everybody.

For old JOURNAL readers who have followed the JOURNAL's biographical accounts and the recounting of the ever-growing number of italics after the name of Warren Beck, playwright, it is not necessary; new JOURNAL readers are reminded that Warren Beck was born in Richmond, Ind. He received his B.A. degree from Earlham College, and his M.A. degree from Columbia University. He is now an Associate Professor of English at Lawrence College, Appleton, Wis. He is author of the following plays for junior high school use: Imagination; The Old Sleuth; Great Caesar; The Estabrook Nieces; False Pretenses; and On With the Show. His recently published volume, "Six Little Theatre Plays," includes: After All These Years; The Fixed Canon; The Affairs of Men; A Heart Too Soon Made Glad; It's No Use To Argue; and Fine Frenzy. In "Comedies Seven," issued by Row, Peterson, and Company, Beck contributed Apostrophe in Modern Dress; and in the "Second Yearbook," Fancy's Knell.

BOWMAN ELECTED FRATERNITY HEAD AT FIRST SESSION

12 Chapters Attend County Sigma Phi Epsilon Meeting

Walton Bowman, member of the New Rochelle Sigma Phi Epsilon chapter, was elected to the presidency of the Sigma Phi Epsilon chapter at its first session held at the restaurant where 12 chapters were represented.

The purpose of the new group is to acquire members of the fraternity from different chapters, both one member and to look forward to the incorporation of an active chapter of the chapter.

The group, headed by Bowman, will include in its scope the fostering of co-operation and fraternity in the new chapter. Bowman will be the first president of the new chapter.

Mr. Bowman, an alumnus of the Hamilton-McCormick chapter in Virginia, will launch the movement in those parts of the County which have not representation in the chapter.

Other officers elected were: William B. McConnaughy, Jr., Secretary; and William B. McConnaughy, Jr., Treasurer.

Robert Grumet, Frank Friedman, Walton Bowman, William B. McConnaughy, Jr., and other members of the Sigma Phi Epsilon chapter.

THE NEWS

Robson Named Columbia University Press Production Manager

THE MAGAZINE Book Binding and Book Production in its September, 1936, number announced the appointment of John Robson, Wisconsin Alpha '28, as manager of production at Columbia University Press. He has been with the Press since March, 1935, in a part-time editorial capacity, at which time he was enrolled in the course in journalism at Columbia, as well as serving as technical editor of the New York Journal of Medicine.

In addition to his production duties at the Press, Robson has been laboring upon, and has recently completed, his manuscript of a two hundred and fifty page Guide to Columbia University which is to be published at an early date.

As if Robson did not have his professional hands full, last season he appeared in the chief role in the original New York production of George Middleton's anti-war drama, Hiss-Boom-Blah! Robert Garland, in his drama criticism column in the New York World Telegram, called his performance in the part of the filibustering anti-war Senator (Wisconsin's progressive Republican Robert M. LaFollette was the prototype) noteworthy.

Many readers of the JOURNAL will remember Robson as the editor's assistant from 1932 to 1935 and the contributor of the delightful column, "Pan Hellenica" which appeared in the magazine during those years.

O'Neil Story Sold to American Magazine

A SEATTLE Times columnist tells the following story of how Washington Beta's Paul O'Neil refused to be discouraged by rejection slips, how he gave new credence to the copy-book maxim that "Perseverance Wins the Race" by succeeding, finally, in placing a short story with the American Magazine, and for a nice fat fee! The Times columnist puts it this way:

For several years, Paul O'Neil, Seattle Times general assignment reporter, has spent much of his spare time writing, rewriting and polishing countless short stories. Most of them have gone to the magazine headquarters of the so-called "slicks," magazines of the more expensive class, paying good rates to writers.

The rejection slips were discouraging at times but Paul was determined to sell to the "slicks" or not at all. He didn't even try his stories on the editors of "pulp paper" magazines.

Several months ago, Paul completed a short story, about 6000 words, based in part on his trip to Hawaii during the summer of 1935 with University of Washington naval cadets on the battleship Tennessee. During that trip Paul listened to naval flyers spin yarns in the wardroom. He formed the story around some of those yarns and titled it "Sugar Baby."

Paul got an acceptance the other day from the American Magazine and "Sugar Baby" means $400 of "heavy sugar" to Paul.

Marion Ralph Brown, Lawyer, Politician

THE LATE ELECTION found Marion Ralph Brown, New Mexico Alpha, competing as a Republican candidate for a place in the House of Representatives of the Congress of the United States, to represent the state of New Mexico. In seeking election he was contributing to a congressional tradition inaugurated by his grandfather, the late Seth W. Brown, one-time member of Congress from the Sixth District of Ohio.

Brown was reared by his grandfather with whom he entered practice of the law after attendance of the Cincinnati Law School and admission to the Bar of Ohio.

In 1917 he enlisted in the army. Upon his discharge he settled in New Mexico. Attending the University of New Mexico he became a member of the Coronado Club, to be chartered as New Mexico Alpha of Sigma Phi Epsilon in 1928.

During the administration of Governor Selegman, Brown served for two years as a member of the Board of Regents of the University of New Mexico, and in 1928 he was elected to the New Mexico House of Representatives.

He is a member of the American Legion, having served as commander and adjutant of the Local DAV post.

He is the author of "Legal Psychology," a treatise widely used by attorneys and law students.

Bullington Receives Sigma Tau Fellowship to M.I.T.

THE STELLAR scholastic achievement of New Mexico Alpha's Kenneth Bullington, University of New Mexico, '35, was climaxed with the receipt of the coveted Graduate Fellowship awarded to one of its outstanding members each year by the Sigma Tau Fraternity. The summer issue of The Pyramid of Sigma Tau briefs Bullington's career to date:

The Sigma Tau Fellowship Committee selected Kenneth Bullington, a member of Chi chapter at the University of New Mexico, to receive the 1936-37 Graduate Fellowship. He will spend the ensuing year at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, where he will seek an M.S. degree in electrical engineering. His special interest has been in electronics and he hopes to continue investigations in this field.

Brother Bullington was born twenty-three years ago in Guthrie, Oklahoma. As a student at the Albuquerque High School he served as editor of the Annual and took an active part in dramatics, debating, and the science clubs. He stood second in a graduating class of 200.

Entering the University of New Mexico, he received the Sigma Tau medal for scholarship at the end of his freshman year. He became a member of the Sigma Phi Epsilon social fraternity and served on the staff of the Mirage. He was also active in the Y.M.C.A. and debating club. During his second year he took five hours each semester and worked as city circulation manager of the New Mexico State Tribune.

on a full-time basis. The following year he carried twelve hours each semester with the same outside responsibilities. When the Tribune was sold he obtained work at the Albuquerque National Trust and Savings Bank, where he was promoted from messenger to teller and statistician during his fifteen months' service with that institution.

He was elected to membership in Sigma Tau, Kappa Mu Epsilon, and Phi Kappa Phi during his junior and senior years. He became a member of the Student Senate and served as chairman of the Student Branch of A.I.E.E. He maintained a uniformly high scholastic standing and at the time of graduation he was the highest ranking senior in the entire University.

For the Good of the Order

Rushing a Matter of Salesmanship

By Thomas H. Neal
Kansas Alpha

From a twenty-one year fraternity experience I have arrived at the conclusion that rushing is not nearly so difficult a problem as some would make it, that is if you are rushing for a good fraternity of which you have a thorough knowledge. It's merely a matter of salesmanship. The difficulty is, and it is this that makes of rushing a "problem," that too many persons are using a sales approach or a rushing technique which no longer applies to the present-day fraternity situation. There has been a sharp change in just about everything since I was a freshman back in 1915, and this change is particularly true of fraternities.

For example, back in 1915 there weren't many large and expensive fraternity houses, and few chapters had any sizable obligations. They could, therefore, carry on with small delegations, and take their time about selecting them. But in the same ratio that fraternity houses have become always larger and more expensive, and the scope of fraternity activities has increased, this situation has changed.

Still another change is the difference in the knowledge of fraternities which my fellow freshmen of 1915 had, and the completer acquaintance of the more sophisticated freshmen of 1936. Not many of we 1915'ers knew much if anything about fraternities, and not many of our parents knew much more. We were easy!

But the 1936 freshman is a vastly different fellow. It has been my observation that he probably knew more about fraternities as a high school senior entering college than most of the fellows of my vintage knew after three or four months of our freshman year had passed. At least he thinks he knows, and the result is very nearly the same for the person who is doing the rushing. And because he knows or thinks he knows all about fraternities it is the freshman who is coming to ask pointed questions, to take his time about deciding what delegation he will join. In fact some freshmen, I sometimes wonder if their numbers are increasing, decide, after being ineffectually rushed, not to join any delegation.

For these reasons, then, I'm convinced that the rushing approach which was adequate in 1915 is

Direct Mail Rushing

By George Collins and Robert McKericher, Md. Alpha

The Problem: To give the Freshmen "something to remember us by" prior to the opening of the University.

Apparatus: A booklet entitled "Welcome Freshmen, to Hopkins."

Procedure: Such a booklet, to be successful, and to uphold the prestige of Sigma Phi Epsilon on the Hopkins Campus, of necessity had to be of a conservative and dignified nature. To be effective the information contained within its pages must be unselfish and must prove helpful as well as interesting to the freshmen. The booklet itself is a four-page affair, pocket-size, with four articles making up its contents.

"To you Freshmen, we present this introduction, which we hope will enable you to become acquainted with the campus and its buildings." That, the first paragraph of the article, "I Am Your Campus," opened the booklet. An article of this type is of particular importance to the freshman before he comes to the University. The new freshman is hungry for any bits of information about his prospective school. He wants to know how many buildings there are on the campus, what they are for, and likes to picture the campus in his own mind long before he ever sets foot on it. "I Am Your Campus" satisfies these desires and gives the freshman something concrete upon which to build his thoughts.

What football games will my college play? That, too, is answered in Md. Alpha's booklet. The football schedule is listed on page two.

"I am going to devote all of my time to studies," or "I am going to get into as many activities as I can." These are the typical examples of the trend of thought of many freshmen. "A Complete College Career" attempts to put the man on the right track, it being a brief but serious discussion of why both activities and studies are important when properly proportioned. The essence of the article may be derived from its opening paragraph, "The real college man is not the man who devotes his entire time to his studies; nor, by far, the one who, on the other hand, spends his time entirely with extra-curricular activities; but the man who develops for himself a well-balanced career."

Salesmanship

better than worthless in 1936, and had best be discarded for a new and better one.

There's still another side to this business of selling your fraternity—

During the summer of 1935 I had occasion to visit a gentleman who was head of the mathematics department and assistant coach in a high school of some 1,500 students in a city of more than 200,000 population. Even a brief acquaintance convinced me that he was a natural leader, for whose opinions the students had great respect. And he was bitterly opposed to fraternities, opposed because he had never really understood what fraternities are all about.

I took it upon myself and spent considerable time and effort in the process of selling this gentleman on the idea of what real fraternities stand for. I won his confidence and today he is a staunch supporter of fraternities. His daughter, who had previously been forbidden to do so, has joined a good sorority, last year he was instrumental in sending two men to Baker and to Kansas Alpha, and this year he has sent Kansas Alpha four more exceptionally fine men.

The point I am trying to make is this. There was a fraternity opponent in a strategic position who needed only to be "sold" which is to say to have fraternity explained to him in its proper light to make a booster of him.

I, therefore, offer this suggestion. If your chapter wants to build up its membership in a given town or city, make it a point to contact a leading school man there and sell him on Sigma Phi Epsilon's ideals and organization. Tell him about our Plan of Finance, our Placement Service, our Loan Fund. Entertain him at the house. Have him meet the fellows. If you do, I'll wager that you'll find that the right type of man will respond fully and will come to work with you as hard if not harder than some of your alumni. Certainly this has been my experience. Why not give it a try? I believe it to be an important and worthwhile angle on rushing that will do more than anything else to make easier the securing of the type of men whom we must insist on having for Sigma Phi Epsilon.

Direct Mail

For the most difficult portion of the booklet entitled "Any Fraternity, What It Is," we owe our deepest appreciation and most gracious acknowledgment to Brother Clarence Freeark, from whose pamphlet we obtained the theme of our last article. Purely unselfish in nature the story might well have served the purpose of promoting the interests of any fraternity on the Hopkins campus. Written for the benefit of not only the freshman but for his parents as well, we attempted to discuss the college fraternity in its actual state. The advantages of belonging to such an organization, an interpretation of the expense involved and thoughts as to the meaning of a fraternity to its members were included in the discussion.

The booklet was mailed to all freshmen at their homes, a few weeks prior to their leaving for the University. We did not attempt to discriminate among these men, inasmuch as we felt that such material would prove beneficial in building good will for the Md. Alpha chapter of Sigma Phi Epsilon. This was our method of approach to the problem.

Results: 1. Aided in the always difficult task of breaking the ice when the fraternity men first contacted the freshmen. 2. The freshmen were already aware of the fact upon contact that Sigma Phi Epsilon played an open hand and was above all things, fair. 3. On October 25, 1936, the Md. Alpha Chapter pledged ten men and at the time of this writing there are still more to come. This was the finest group of men pledged by any of the fourteen national fraternities on the campus.

Conclusions: This is merely one example of the many ways in which an alumni association can materially help the active chapter in its rushing program. This booklet was conceived and written by the Baltimore Alumni Association. Its production and distribution was completed before the active chapter had returned to the university for the school year.

If any of the chapters would like sample copies of this booklet they may address their requests to Robert A. McKericher, secretary of the Baltimore Alumni Association, 3031 Gwynns Falls Parkway, Baltimore, Maryland.

FEBRUARY JOURNAL

DEADLINE for active chapter material for the February issue will fall on January 7.

Chapter Historians are urged to forward their material before leaving school for the Christmas vacation, however.

With the Alumni

Atlanta

ON OCTOBER 23 more Atlanta Alumni attended the annual Alumni election than ever before in the history of this organization. The old boys were really there. The following men were named to head this group for 1936-37: president, James T. Whitner; vice-president, Henry L. Reid; treasurer, C. D. Le Bey; secretary, Frank Player; assistant secretary, Joe Henry Singer. Brother Thomas H. Stubbs was designated as the chapter counsel.

Baltimore

THE BALTIMORE Alumni Association—reorganized November 6, 1935—is going places and doing things! Heart Dinner, bowling, luncheon meetings, honorary members, but wait—we'll tell you all about them.

This association held what we believe to be the first affair of its kind in the history of the fraternity. We paid tribute to the emblem that is held dear by all of the brothers in Sigma Phi Epsilon—our sacred heart. Our first annual Heart Dinner, on May 2, 1936, was attended by sixty-eight men, both active and alumni, and Uncle Billy Phillips who brought us a priceless message. It was on this occasion that Theodore R. McKeldin, former secretary to the Mayor of Baltimore City, a prominent lawyer and an outstanding political leader in the State of Maryland, was introduced to the fraternity as one of our brothers. He was admitted to honorary membership on April 26, 1936. The Heart Dinner was the climax to a series of successful social functions which included dances, stag parties and luncheon meetings throughout the year.

Our social season opens this year with a "Founders' Day" weekend party—a dance on October 30, a stag on the 31st, and a tea on November 1.

Chicago

WHILE THE HEAT and the drought has dried out activities of the Chicago Alumni chapter for the past few months, the Windy City boys managed to beat the gun in May with their annual Shindig. This was staged May 20 at Riccardo's Studio Restaurant, one of the newer eating and drinking spots that is meeting with much favor.

Riccardo, above all, is a cook. Next, he is a host. He managed to outdo himself at both specialties for the Shindig—but there were brothers who commented that they thought Ric should not be allowed to peek at the entertainment just because he owned the joint. Nor, they reasoned, should he be permitted to throw seven passes without stopping. Hosts—polite hosts, anyhow—don't do that.

The entertainment at the Shindig was excellent and well received—although again, there were those that said it wasn't exactly irreproachable. But those fellows closed their eyes, or made believe they did.

Brothers Ralph W. Spencer, Ray S. Thurman, C. W. Schoffstall, Frank N. Phelps, Don MacGregor, Evans Plummer, Irv Highland, A. F. Gehlbach and E. B. Boston comprised the entertainment committee in charge of the Shindig and their ideas worked out successfully from both the amusement and financial standpoints. A couple of the girl dancers, however, wanted to charge someone something or other for tearing off some cellophane, but they were pacified when permitted to see the moving pictures free of charge. The moving pictures needed some cellophane also.

But—becoming serious for a moment—Chicago Alumni chapter reports a most successful year with many new brothers in its fold. The tried policies of the past year will be carried out again this season by President Ralph W. Spencer. Outstanding speakers on unusual and varied subjects will be the monthly attraction in addition to the fellowship of the brothers and the fun of playing cards, pool, ping pong, etc., afterward.

In addition to President Spencer, Nebraska Alpha, the new officers for the ensuing year are: vice-president, Robert E. Pitt, Minnesota Alpha, with the Pitt Engineering Co.; treasurer, Charles W. Schoffstall, D.C. Alpha, who is connected with the wholesale division of Marshall Field & Co.; and secretary, Rodney D. Harrison, Kansas Beta, of the Natural Gas Pipeline Co. President Spencer is employed in the automotive division of Montgomery Ward & Co.

Meetings will be resumed the third Tuesday in September and will be held regularly the third Tuesday of each month thereafter. The place of meeting is the Interfraternity Club, 106 South Wabash Avenue, Chicago.

(Omitted from September issue.)

Denver

COLORADO will send a Sig Ep senator to Washington this year in the person of Governor Ed C. Johnson whose re-election popularity put him across for this office.

In Denver, Brother Francis J. Knauss as a Republican, and Henry S. Lindsley as a Democrat, vied for positions on the District Court bench and both of these brothers were fully and competently prepared to handle this judicial position, which was won by Lindsley.

Brother Charles Patch, District Governor, aided as a Sig Ep campaign manager of each of these brothers by sending out cards and literature describing their achievements and asking for Sig Ep support.

In any Denver political district, Brother Thomas J. Morrissey, United States District Attorney for Colorado, cannot be overlooked. Brother Morrissey, a former lieutenant under Senator Costigan in the Democratic party is looked upon as one of the astute and successful younger leaders of the Democrats in Colorado. So Colorado Sig Eps are taking a leading and active part in this state's politics on both sides of our two leading political parties.

The Denver Alumni chapter held its Founders' Day banquet November 10 at the Edelweiss Cafe in Denver, and Sig Eps from the entire state and two active chapters were present. Arrangements for this banquet were in charge of Byrl Niswanger, president of the Denver Alumni group.

The Colorado chapters, all branches, will enter the freshman classes this year and, with a renewed campaign of alumni interest to be put on soon by the Denver Alumni group, 1937 promises to be one of the strongest and most successful years for Colorado Sig Eps in history.

STEVENS PARK KINNEY, Secretary

Durham

DURHAM ALUMNI held a dinner meeting at the Duke Union, Sunday evening, November 1.

The meeting which had the twin purposes of serving as a "get acquainted" meeting of Durham Alumni and of effecting temporary organization looking toward the final organization of a Durham Alumni chapter at the next meeting, was presided over by Zach Thomas, North Carolina Gamma, who was chosen temporary president. Emmett W. Shackelford, North Carolina Epsilon, was named temporary secretary of the group.

Representatives of eight chapters were present:

Charles E. Landon, Kansas Gamma; R. G. Carter, Alabama Alpha; R. Mel Perry, Washington Beta; J. W. Kelly, Delaware Alpha; Ed. E. Wiley, Jr., North Carolina Gamma; C. S. Whitaker, North Carolina Gamma; W. C. Ethridge, North Carolina Gamma; C. D. Partin, Jr., North Carolina Gamma; S. V. Daniel, Jr., North Carolina Epsilon; Emmett William Shackelford, North Carolina Gamma; Wardell Mills, North Carolina Delta; Zach Thomas, North Carolina Gamma; and JOURNAL Editor F. James Barnes, II, Virginia Delta, who represented the Grand Chapter.

Enthusiasm for the formation of a Durham Alumni chapter was marked. This fact, coupled with the number of Sig Ep Alumni in the Durham area, augers well for future alumni activity in this vicinity.

EMMETT WM. SHACKELFORD, Secretary

Kansas City

THE K. C. Alumni chapter regular meetings are held the first Thursday of each month commencing with dinner at 6:30 o'clock followed by the business meeting and then a poker game or what have you. Our August meeting as usual was held at Slim Elting's home at Lake Lotawana. Fishing and swimming held sway the earlier part of the evening. A buffet lunch with plenty of beer and a short business session gave way for the usual share-the-wealth-if-you-don't-hold-the-cards poker game which carried on into the early morning hours.

Our annual fall rush party was held Friday, September 4, at the Indian Hills Country Club. Sixty men were present including eighteen rushees and several actives from Kansas Alpha, Kansas Gamma and Missouri Alpha chapters. A very excellent dinner, some snappy entertainment and a few short peppy speeches were enjoyed by everyone. Reports from active chapters indicated that it was a very successful party as it aided them greatly in pledging a number of very good men. President Roush who has been serving on the Alumni Board of the University of Missouri was elected secretary and treasurer of the board for the ensuing year. Dale Boley was also elected to the board at the same time.

Bill Grafrath stepped out to win the prize offered by Transcontinental & Western Air Lines Inc. at the recent K. C. Jubilesta for the best costume depicting the progress of aviation. His reward included a cash prize and a trip to Los Angeles, all expenses paid, via the T.W.A. Our annual steak fry for members and their wives was held November 7. Plans are now under way for our annual party held during the Christmas holidays. We feel that so far, this year has been very successful and are planning for bigger and better things in the future.

F. G. EDWARDS, Secretary

New Rochelle (Westchester Co.)

WALLACE BOWMAN, Virginia Zeta, member of the New Rochelle senior high school faculty, was elected to the presidency of the Westchester County Alumni organization which was formed

Saturday, September 13, at a dinner at Grabs Restaurant, New Rochelle, where were gathered representatives of twelve chapters.

The purpose of the group is to acquaint members of the fraternity from different chapters with one another, and to look forward to the incorporation of a chartered alumni chapter.

The group, besides planning a social program, will include in its scope the fostering of college and fraternity interests throughout Westchester by disseminating information and advising young men in academic problems.

Bowman, an alumnus of Randolph-Macon, will launch the movement in those parts of the county not represented at the dinner.

Other officers named were: William B. McKinney, Ohio Gamma, 44 Lester Place, vice-president; Robert M. Grunert, New York Alpha, Mount Vernon, secretary; Frank Fellman, Jr., Indiana Alpha, 26 Argyle Avenue, treasurer.

After details of organization were completed, the meeting was entertained by moving pictures of a trip through the American and Canadian Rockies shown by Arthur B. Hussey who related some of his climbing experiences.

There are more than one hundred Sig Eps in Westchester County.

ROBERT GRUNERT, Secretary

St. Louis

FALL ACTIVITIES of the St. Louis Alumni chapter started Monday night, October 26, with a dinner meeting held at the Forest Park Hotel. A Founders' Day celebration was the main note of the evening. Brother Woodruff Marsalek gave the keynote address, which was followed by group singing of the fraternity songs. Awards for achievements and activities throughout the year were made, Carl Beck winning the grand prize and the honor of being the most active man in the St. Louis and Alumni chapters during 1936.

Brothers George Harkness and Louie Thym made the best attendance records at weekly luncheon meetings.

Treasurer Bobbie Gough gave the finance report which showed quite an improvement over last year. Approximately seven times as many dues were collected in 1936 as in 1935.

Charlie Stewart, the boy who gets action, gave a short speech of thanks to the present members for their cooperation throughout the year.

Brother Fahey gave a short résumé of the chapter's activities, stressing the fact that attendance at weekly luncheons had increased from an average of twelve to an average of twenty; monthly dinner meetings jumping from an average of twenty-two to thirty-seven, and with few exceptions, usually went well over forty-five. Over one hundred different members have attended some function throughout the year. Brother Fahey pointed out that our wholehearted thanks was due to Brother Beckers and the Social Committee for attaining such outstanding speakers for our dinner meetings as Pepper Martin, of the St. Louis Cardinals; Dwight Holmes of the Better Business Bureau; George Sisler, famous baseball expert; Captain Hopkins of the Western Cartridge Company; and Mr. Nicholas Wreden, famous Russian author.—Through the coöperation of the attendance committee it was found possible to give a free luncheon each week and an attendance prize each month, as well as several other monthly prizes, donated by various members of the committees. A boat ride; a dinner dance, at one-half cost; a golf tournament; and a soft-ball game between the actives and the alumni were given.

Philip Maxeiner spoke a few words upon the work of the Non-Partisan Judicial Committee of Missouri.

Dick Redell, former president of the Illinois Alpha chapter, paid us a visit and we hope to have him as a permanent member.

At the close of the Founders' Day celebration and the talks upon the activities of the past year, the annual election was held. Officers selected for the forthcoming year are: president, Charles Stewart, the only man who has been given the presidency of our alumni chapter for more than two consecutive years; first vice-president, Bob Fahey; second vice-president, Charlie McIntire; secretary, Woody Marsalek; and Bobby Gough is serving his third year as treasurer.

Charlie Judge called for a vote of thanks for the retiring officers.

Plans were discussed for the next dinner meeting and instructions were given to the Executive Committee to outline a program of activities for the coming year.

After the business was over, the group settled down to the really serious part of the evening, and when the secretary left at one o'clock, the meeting had not yet adjourned.

R. J. FAHEY, Secretary

Twin City

THE TWIN CITY Alumni Association finds itself with a busy summer and fall behind it, and an even busier winter ahead. The weekly luncheons have been very well attended, even during the summer. The scene is Millers, every Wednesday, and the past few months have seen several long-absent but well remembered brothers seated at our festive board. One of the most interesting perhaps, was Les Johnson's appearance in July. Les is in the Consular service and has been stationed variously in Australia, Japan, and Central America, from where he came to Minneapolis for a short visit before leaving for Gibraltar, where he now reads this. Another was George Smith who is rapidly becoming a factor in the field of education in New York State.

Our sweepstakes division, ably directed by Pat Halloran, has established itself even more firmly as a necessary adjunct of these luncheons.

When you read this our annual Homecoming Banquet will be history. Remy Hudson is to act as toastmaster, assisted by Bob Sullivan and Sam Campbell. Our guest speaker will be Mark Wilkins, first assistant to Grand Secretary Phillips. The banquet will be held at the Leamington Hotel in Minneapolis.

Plans are practically completed now for a monthly news letter, the first issue of which will go out about November 15. Please communicate changes of address to Don Kanne, 405 Plymouth Building, Minneapolis.

NEAL MILEY, President

District of Columbia

EFFORTS are being led by Earl Tippy, chairman of the Alumni Relations committee, to reorganize the now non-existent Alumni chapter in Washington, D.C. As there are now three hundred Sig Ep Alumni in Washington, the need for this organization is deeply felt. All interested alumni residing in this city are requested to contact Tippy at the D. C. Alpha Chapter House.

★ SOCIAL FUNCTIONS ★

ALABAMA ALPHA: On September 21 a member-pledge smoker was held in order to acquaint the new pledges with members and members with pledges. A pledge smoker was held October 13 in the chapter living room with two pledges from each fraternity on the campus as guests.

The first real social function of the semester was held October 31 in the form of a steak fry with members and pledges and their dates attending. The chapter house mother acted as chaperon and following the steak fry everyone returned to the chapter house where an informal radio dance was enjoyed.

ALABAMA BETA: Held first of a series of informal dances at new chapter house October 1. Members, pledges and their dates, as well as rushees had an enjoyable evening.

ARKANSAS ALPHA: Buffet luncheon.

COLORADO BETA: Aside from a few small house dances, not many social functions. An alumni dinner was held at the chapter house Friday, October 16, at which twenty alumni were present. After the dinner guests and their dates attended a theatre party.

COLORADO GAMMA: October 3 the actives gave a dance at the chapter house, honoring the new pledges. Although given primarily for the pledges, the active chapter seemed to have a very good time. The music was furnished by Joe Cook's orchestra of Longmont, Colo.

Our annual carnival dance, for which the brothers tried to raise a two piece beard and mustache, was given October 30. The theme of the decorations was in keeping with the Halloween spirit.

COLORADO DELTA: Steak fry held September 13 for the rushees; pledge dance held November 25.

DELAWARE ALPHA: The only social functions to date have been in conjunction with rush week which opened on October 14 and closed a week later. The high light of the week was a large houseparty on Saturday, the 17th. A fine orchestra kept a large crowd swinging in a typical Sig Ep party. Other functions were two smokers, the first with a very entertaining act by the one and only Kli Ban, of Philadelphia, who did several interesting card and rope tricks, some amazing tricks of magic and concluded with a very interesting lecture and demonstration of hypnotism. The second smoker consisted of a very interesting talking picture, shown through the courtesy of Brother Alvin Roberson, Jr., of Butlers, Inc. All affairs were arranged by Social Chairman Bob Jamison.

DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA ALPHA: D. C. Alpha started the social season with a tea dance Sunday, September 27, followed by a "rush" dance Thursday, October 1, at the house. Two stag "rush" parties, at one of which Brother C. P. Coe, Commissioner of Patents, gave an inspiring talk, were held during rush week. George Washington's sensational football victories were celebrated by singing and radio dances after the Friday night games. The Sigma Chis were our guests Sunday, October 25, for a ping-pong tournament, followed by a radio dance.

Our first formal was a Halloween dance at the house October 31.

FLORIDA ALPHA: During rush week Florida Alpha entertained its rushees with several picnics and swimming parties at nearby springs. On October 10, we held a pep dance in honor of our freshmen pledges. During Homecoming, October 30, 31, we held a banquet in honor of our visiting alumni. Dr. T. W. McCaul, one of the original 20 members of Sigma Phi Epsilon, gave the principle address. Dan McCarty, newly elected member of the state legislature, spoke for the visiting alumni. Plans are being made for a breakfast and a dance during Fall Frolics the weekend of December 5. The weekend of November 7 we held a formal dinner and dance at the Hyde Park Country Club in Jacksonville. It was originally planned to commemorate Founders' Day but the plans were changed.

GEORGIA ALPHA: House dance for about thirty rushees; a hay ride on October 30 honoring new pledges; regular Sunday dinners to give the pledges an opportunity to get acquainted with the S.P.E. girls.

ILLINOIS ALPHA: The annual pledge dance was held at the house of Illinois Alpha. The pledge master, Harry Combes, was presented with a very beautiful watch chain, engraved with the crest. After the dance the fellows serenaded the various houses in which they had dates.

INDIANA ALPHA: Pledge dance October 24.

IOWA BETA: Founders' Day coincided very nicely with homecoming here at Iowa Beta. On Saturday, October 31, was the game with Oklahoma in which Brothers Dailey at tackle and Brisbin at halfback played an active part. Saturday night was the annual homecoming dance at which there were some thirty alumni. Sunday morning, November 1, was initiation at eight o'clock, and after dinner Iowa Beta held open house for friends and alumni.

IOWA GAMMA: Picnic; buffet supper and a dance after it.

KANSAS ALPHA: Pledges entertained the actives with their dates at a picnic on October 24. There was a large central bonfire, and at a distance seven small fires for cooking the food. After eating lots of good food the group celebrated with speeches, songs, and games.

KANSAS BETA: No social functions have been held at the house to date although plans are being made for the annual Candlelight Capers just before Christmas vacation.

KENTUCKY ALPHA: September 17, twenty-five rushees were entertained at Brother Coleman Alford's lodge on Lake Herrington. Plenty of swimming, boating, and eating was the fashion for the evening!

LOUISIANA ALPHA: Radio Dance, October 3, held at the chapter house. Football Party, October 17, at which both members and pledges, with dates, listened to the Tulane-Colgate game. Refreshments and dancing completed the afternoon. Halloween Party, October 31. Dancing, entertainment, and refreshments.

MARYLAND ALPHA: One formal dance, one informal dance, one stag party.

MISSOURI ALPHA: October 2, a "record dance" was held. Each couple brought one new phonograph record and we danced from 8:30 to 12 to the music of some of the country's best bands. October 30 the pledges gave a weiner roast for the actives and their dates. The weather was chilly enough to make it fun to be around a blazing fire and a great time was had by all. The newly learned fraternity songs sounded perfect when they echoed back across the valley. The annual Christmas formal is set for December 5. George Rutledge, social chairman, has promised to make it the best in the history of the chapter.

MISSOURI BETA: The annual pledge dance, held this year at the Park Plaza Hotel on October 16, has been the highlight of the fall social calendar. Woody Marsalek provided the grand climax by coming through with a box of cigars. Carrying out the chapter policy of frequent informal parties, a weiner roast and a hay ride were included in the October calendar. A series of house dances were scheduled for November.

NEW MEXICO ALPHA: Three house dances; four smokers; and an extensive rush week program. The annual Halloween dance given by the pledges.

NEW YORK ALPHA: Fall dance for pledges October 16; attended chapel in a body September 27.

NEW YORK BETA: Victrola dance; Syracuse chapter were our guests the weekend of October 17.

NEW YORK GAMMA: Until November 7 when our first house dance was held, New York Gamma's social activities were restricted to rushing. Two smokers have been held, at which Brother Gerald E. Se Boyar, professor of General Literature spoke to rushees. A rush dance was held October 22. Another smoker was planned for November 4.

NORTH CAROLINA GAMMA: Open-house after all our football games; cabin party after the Georgia Tech game.

NORTH CAROLINA DELTA: Informal house dance for the rushees.

NORTH CAROLINA EPSILON: Halloween party October 31. Several cars of girls came up from Charlotte; and Rock Hill, S.C., was also well represented. The house was decorated for the Homecoming game against the University of North Carolina on November 7. Many of the alumni visited the chapter at this time. The pledges entertained pledges of other fraternities on the campus with a feed and smoker October 28.

OHIO ALPHA: Three informal house dances.

OHIO GAMMA: October 10, Ohio Gamma held its first dance. Since then we have had two Saturday night radio dances. Highlights of rush week included a smoker in the chapter house with pictures shown of last year's Ohio State-Notre Dame football game, and a Sunday evening dinner at the Granville Inn in Granville, Ohio.

OHIO EPSILON: September 19, pledge party; September 26, Monte Carlo party; October 3, Hay ride; October 4, "Keeno" party; October 10, Wiener roast; October 17, pledge formal; October 18, "Kid" party; October 25, Halloween party.

OKLAHOMA ALPHA: House dance October 3.

OREGON ALPHA: Opening this year's social schedule was a "Treasure Island" dance. The first floor dancing space was decorated with "house-made" banana trees which were supposed to transform the place into the wildest section of the historical island. A typical tavern sign hanging above the entrance to the basement, directed the dancers to "Benbow Inn." Many surprises awaited the curious. The first sight to confront them was a good ol' bar with rail and all. Only cider was served by three capable barmen. On false paper walls around the basement were scrawled modern sayings to give the homey touch. Tables were placed about the basement where you could be served with a noggin o' cider if you had scruples against drinking at a bar. One could even look at the stars for the nominal sum of ten cents.

PENNSYLVANIA EPSILON: In September an informal pledge dance was attended by twenty couples. A record guest list of thirty made a success of the Fall house-party weekend, October 30-November 1.

PENNSYLVANIA ETA: Three victrola dances; fall house party weekend of October 31.

TENNESSEE ALPHA: A dinner dance in honor of the pledges. Open-house after each home football game. A great number of alumni dropped by the house after each game for a few minutes. Brother Rockwell of Virginia Epsilon was toastmaster at the usual Founders' Day Banquet. The Founders' Day Banquet was held at the Farragut Hotel. Christmas party coming.

TEXAS ALPHA: Pledges honored at open house October 2. Judge and Mrs. C. G. Krueger and Mrs. L. Blake Stroud were chaperons.

UTAH ALPHA: Rush party.

VIRGINIA ALPHA: Rush dances on September 17 and 25 at National Headquarters; cabin party at "Uncle Billy" Phillips on October 14; banquet celebrating thirty-fifth anniversary of the fraternity held Sunday, November 1, at the Westmoreland Club. Sixty-five persons present including the active chapters of Virginia Alpha, Virginia Zeta, and many alumni from Richmond.

VIRGINIA DELTA: House party and dance October 16.

VIRGINIA ZETA: Informal party honoring the goats; a party given by the goats; informal get-together at "Uncle Billy" Phillips' cabin on the James River.

VIRGINIA ETA: Founders' Day was celebrated Sunday, November 1. A banquet was held for the local alumni and pledges that afternoon. Two of the local alumni, Dr. Lord and Dr. Lambeth, spoke on the founding of Sigma Phi Epsilon and the importance of college life. The afternoon was spent in visiting with the alumni.

WEST VIRGINIA BETA: A pledge-active get-together on October 16; a "Victory Nite" party scheduled for November 7 to celebrate the victory of SPE over KS in the annual interfraternity football game.

WISCONSIN ALPHA: A party at the house every other week. One big party for the pledges with Joe Roberts and his snappy little band. The annual winter formal is in the offing.

WISCONSIN BETA: Parties October 4 and October 31. Scabbard and Blade held a party in the house November 6.
